

Plastic tubing

Non-metallic tubing as an internal component of gas-fired boiler controls and safety devices is acceptable if the boiler controls and safety devices are certified by a nationally recognized testing agency as complying with ANSI Z21.13 and the tubing is used to convey air, not gas, in accordance with that standard.